

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The oscillation prevention circuit according to the present invention is used for two-point interactive communication between two communication equipment connected to each other via a transmission system, and either one of the two communication equipment has a means for preventing the oscillation phenomenon which occurs between the two communication equipment.

10

15

20

25

30

35

1000375-10801